

THREE HUNDRED TONS

That Is One Day's Sales of "The World's" Cheap Coal.

Consumers Now Realize How Much the Movement Means.

Combine Keeps Up Prices by Starving the Market.

"The World's" fight against the coal combine is growing hotter every day. Yesterday the market which it has established for cheap coal had another boom. The sales of $1.50 coal reached 311 tons for the day, making a grand total of 2,875 tons up to the present time to domestic consumers in this city and Brooklyn.

This is as it should be, now that the people are becoming fully aroused to the importance of this crusade against the grasping barons, and are more clearly comprehending the scope and effect of "The World's" movement in their behalf.

As "The World" has repeatedly pointed out, the coal mining and coal carrying railroads, which form the basis of the combine, are able to maintain high prices for their product, by starving the market. They do this by keeping a large area of the coal mines out of use, and restricting the supply. They find it much more profitable to themselves to get a high price for a small production than to sell a large amount at a lower price.

This is not difficult to understand, for they are saving the expense of a large force of miners and additional machinery which would be necessary if a wider field were being worked. If the coal lands which are now in control of the Pennsylvania companies were properly developed, they would give employment to thousands more workmen than are at present engaged. The increased demand for labor would result in better wages, and at the same time the larger production of anthracite would cheapen the coal to the consumer.

The coal companies, however, have no interest in bettering wages or cheapening coal. Under the laws of the State they are compelled to pay any higher taxes on coal than on other lands than on any other wild and unimproved land, and the result is they can afford to let their coal lie idle. There is very little doubt that if the State of Pennsylvania should compel the barons to pay taxes on coal as on other lands, the coal fields would develop, and the result would be a cheapening of the coal to the consumer.

The anthracite combination began to effect prices seriously in 1873. Since that time the retail price of coal has increased $1.25 a ton in this city, though the cost of mining has been steadily decreasing. The cost of transportation and of handling the coal for delivery has been reduced. If the coal companies were forced to pay taxes on coal as on other lands, the coal fields would develop, and the result would be a cheapening of the coal to the consumer.

In 1873, the year when the combine, trust, ring, gang, or whatever you call it began its philanthropic labors in earnest, the price of a ton of coal was $1.50. In the following year it was $1.75, $1.80, $1.85, $1.90, $1.95, $2.00, $2.05, $2.10, $2.15, $2.20, $2.25, $2.30, $2.35, $2.40, $2.45, $2.50, $2.55, $2.60, $2.65, $2.70, $2.75,
